BDO CODE OF PRACTICE No: 9 - VISITING THE UK FOR SPORT - VISA INFORMATION

If you are visiting the UK for a sports event or for business or tourist reasons related to sport, you may require a UK Visitor Visa and should read the information below.

If you are coming to the UK to take up an employment offer from a UK employer related to sport, you will not be eligible for a UK Visitor Visa. Instead you should apply under the UK's Points Based System and be invited by a UK registered sponsor to come to the UK – see <http://www.ukvisas.gov.uk/en/doineedvisa>.

1. Do I need a visa to visit the UK?

Yes, you will need a visa if you hold a valid passport from one of the countries set out on the list at the end of this note (see also www.ukvisas.gov.uk/en/doineedvisa/visadatvnationals).

No, you will not need a visa if you hold a valid passport from a country not on that list (e.g. Australia, Canada, USA, Singapore, Japan, South Korea, etc.) if you are coming to the UK as a visitor for less than 6 months. (But note section 4 below on the requirement for supporting documents to be shown on landing in the UK.) Applicants wanting to stay in the UK for more than 6 months will require a visa.

No, you will not need a visa to come to the UK for any length of time if you hold a valid passport from a country in the European Economic Area (which includes all the European Union countries plus Iceland, Norway and Liechtenstein) or Switzerland.

Note, that the UK is not a member of the Schengen group of countries, so a Schengen visa (applicable in other European countries) will not be valid for travel to the UK.

2. Which visa do I need to apply for?

(a) Sports Visitor Visa

You will be able to apply for a Sports Visitor Visa if you are invited by an event organiser in the UK to take part in a one-off sports event or a series of sports events as a competitor. Coaches, officials, event volunteer or support staff accompanying the sportsperson would also qualify. If you are an athlete coming to train in the UK you may also apply for this type of visa, provided you are not going to stay in the UK for longer than six months.

If you are under 18 and applying for a sports visitor visa, you will also need written consent to travel from your parent or guardian in your home country and you will need to show that you have proper travel, reception and care arrangements in place for your stay in the UK. If you apply as an "Accompanied Child", you must travel with the adult named on the visa; if you apply as an "Unaccompanied Child", you may travel alone or with any adult.

(b) Business Visitor Visa

If you are visiting the UK for a business meeting or conference, to sign contracts, undertake site visits, or for fact-finding missions, you should apply for a Business Visitor Visa. If you are a member of the media, you will also be classed as a Business Visitor, provided you are employed or paid by an overseas company and visiting the UK to gather information for an overseas media organisation.

(c) Visitor Visa

If you are coming to visit the UK as a spectator, dependant or spouse/partner of a sportsperson, guardian to a child under 18, or simply for general tourism, you should apply for a Visitor Visa. (The same rules for visitors under 18 in this category will apply as those in the Sports Visitor Visa category.)

(d) Long-Term Visitor Visa

People with a good history of travel to and from the UK in recent years may wish to apply for a Long-Term Visitor Visa. This visa is valid for 1, 2, 5 or 10 years for multiple entries to the UK, provided that you spend no more than six months in any twelve months in the UK. This could be helpful if you know you will be making several trips to the UK over the next few years. It also means you will only have to give your biometric details the first time you apply for a visa.

If you have a Sports or Business Visitor Visa, you may also enter the UK as a tourist. But you may not enter as a sports person or attend business meetings if you have the general Visitor Visa.

3. How and where do I apply for my visa?

You should apply well in advance of travel (at least two months) to ensure there is sufficient time for your visa to be processed. Details of where to apply can be found at www.ukvisas.gov.uk/en/howtoapply/wheretooapply.

In some countries you must apply online: see www.visa4uk.fco.gov.uk/ApplyNow.aspx. You may also be able to make an appointment during this online process to submit your printed and signed form in person at your nearest Visa Application Centre (VAC) or at a British mission (Embassy/Consulate-General etc) overseas.

If your country does not have the online application facility, you will need to complete a Visa Application Form - see www.ukvisas.gov.uk/en/howtoapply/vafs/. This also needs to be signed and presented in person at a VAC.

You will have to provide biometric data (10-digit finger scans and a digital photograph) by attending in person at a VAC or British mission each time you apply for a visa. The same process will apply for visa applications to all EU countries by 2012.

4. What documents do I need to support my entry to the UK?

If you are not an EEA or Swiss national, you will need to provide documentary evidence to the Immigration Officer on landing at a UK port or airport of the reason for your visit to the UK – e.g. the invitation from the sporting organisation. You may also be asked for evidence that you can support yourself financially and accommodate yourself while in the UK, do not intend to base yourself in the UK and will leave the UK at the end of your visit.

If you need a visa to visit the UK, you will also have to include supporting documents with your visa application. As an applicant for a Sports Visitor Visa, you will have to provide evidence of previous sports participation that resulted in your selection for the event in the UK, a contract of employment or letter from an employer saying you can return to your job and an original invitation letter from the sports federation inviting you to the UK. A full list of supporting documents is set out at the end of the Visa Application Form.

5. How much will my visa cost and how long will it last?

All the visitor visas listed above are generally valid for six months with multiple entries to the UK during that time. They cost £65 (correct to 31 March 2009). The Long-Term Visitor visas are £205 (correct to 31 March 2009).

6. Where do I get more information?

More detailed information on how and where to apply for a UK visa can be found on the UK Border Agency's Visa Services website: www.ukvisas.gov.uk, or at your nearest VAC or British mission.
